Company Culture...It's Not a Game...Unless It Is®!

Here's what you'll get in your Half-Day Workshop!

Hands-on interactive session with the first-ever board game designed to illustrate what is and is not a great company culture to help attendees compare and contrast important benefits, features and attributes to discover how they can apply it to their own organizations.

Why play "Company Culture - a Game of Workplace Traction not Transaction®"?

This game is about getting people within companies to talk to each other. It's about what we, as human beings, value and what people find important at the workplace. It covers some items from policies and procedures and U.S. Federal laws, and most of all what makes a company really great- its culture! Culture can be described as the personality of the company. While pay and benefits are very, very important, people want to be valued, to feel they are contributing, that their voices are heard, and their presence is appreciated. Create that, and you've created a great Company Culture!

Here's what your half-day workshop includes:

- Identify the benefits, features and attributes of a great company culture
- Play the Company Culture Board Game
- Document findings
- Debrief questions and discussion
- Create an action plan

Play with possibilities and create customized initiative(s) for your organization!
